Parks Board Meets

At the meeting of the Parks Board Thursday evening Mr Donaldson was elected Chairman and J H Foerster Secretary for the ensuing year.

A motion passed that the Board ask the Town Council for the usual grant of $75.00 for the season's work.

The attention of the public is called to the fact that the Board is prepared to sell trees for planting at the same rate as last year—20c and 35c apiece.

An effort will be made by the members of the Board to make a good showing the present season at the Town's Ninth Park, the first step being to make the place accessible from the south end for cars and other vehicles. It is the intention to establish a playground here, which will be much more central than the others now in use.

Keeping a Good Man.

Owing to the Provincial Government's campaign for economy and the consequent reduction in the appropriation to the Department of Education, the latter has decided to cut the staff of Public School Inspectors in two, disposing of some 20 Inspectors in the Province. A rumour being current that this reduction would suffer in consequence, those having the welfare of the pupils in the schools concerned are making an effort to have the Stony Plain Inspectorate left undisturbed and the services of its efficient and painstaking Inspector retained.

That the Government should take this method of practicing economy is coming as a painful surprise to some of its local supporters, and others.

Stony Plain Town Council.

Stony Plain Town Council held its regular meeting on Thursday, May 3rd, in the Town Hall, all the members of Council being present but one.

In answer to a communication from the Bickle Engine Co., the Secretary was instructed to reply that Council will pay cash for the engine and appliances, if found up to the guarantee.

A letter from the Safety Appliance Co., enclosing an offer to take back supplies for which the Town had no further use was read, and the company's offer will be accepted.

In response to a circular from the Provincial Fire Commissioner, clean up week in town was set at, from May 7 to 15th.

Subject to inspection, the poles for electric lighting purposes, supplied by Philip Eberhardt, were ordered to be paid for.

The Building Committee was instructed to proceed with the work of laying new street crossings, where found necessary.

A request from the Parks Board for an appropriation of $75 was complied with.

A deputation was present from an athletic association regarding rental of refreshment booth on Fair Grounds last Dominion Day.

A communication was read from the Secretary of Holborn U. F. Local regarding the Town's stray cattle eating up the farmers' sleighs and wagons, an everything when the farmers drive in to town. The Secretary was instructed to frame a suitable reply and forward same.

Striking Development Of The Dairying Industry In The Western Provinces

The most striking development of agriculture in the Canadian Prairie Provinces in recent years, whilst it may not be most apparent to the outside world, has undoubtedly been in dairying. Progress exhibited in this industry has been most encouraging, and this extensive territory, which but a few years ago was devoting its attention exclusively to the support of cattle ranches and expansive wheat fields, and in a period as recent as immediately prior to the war was under the necessity of importing the butter it consumed, has now a large exportable surplus which has already won for itself a favorable reputation in many markets.

Having regard to the dairying industry and the national benefits of more intensive methods of farming, the last eight years have virtually wrought miracles of change in these western provinces. The dairies have come to dot the countryside so profusely that one is to be found conveniently situated to almost every farming community. The car or rig with its cream can behind, is a common feature of the prairie scene, which was exceptional in the past. Stock herds of finely bred dairy cattle have come to replace the nondescript animal prevalent before and break the monotony of what was previously an uninterrupted monotony of wheat and grain fields. Most keenly of all has the western farmer come to feel the change in a greater sense of assurance and security which accrues from a steady income.

That the prairie provinces have only made a commencement on their rise to a pre-eminent place in the Canadian dairy industry is evident from the fact that in the year 1922 Saskatchewan increased its output of milk butter by 25 per cent over 1921. Manitoba showed an increase of 23.5 per cent, whilst Alberta also achieved an increase of nearly 20 per cent. The total value of Alberta's dairy products in 1922 was $2,550,000, of Saskatchewan $1,585,216, and of Manitoba $12,451,222, making a total for the three provinces of $5,585,439.

No less remarkable than the growth of production in this western industry is the diligent attention given to creating a product of undoubted excellence. Western Canadian butter is not only of a high rank in Canada, but is able to make satisfactory competition in the United States and Europe. Last year, for instance, Alberta butter was shown at eleven exhibitions, coming into competition with butter from all other parts of the Dominion, and out of a total of a possible 230 awards, the province secured 234, including 54 firsts. Saskatchewan was the premier province in the previous year, securing the first five prizes in Canada for the highest average scores, whilst in the same year Manitoba secured the silver medal in Chicago and the year before took three Canadian provincial championships and twenty first prizes.

Among other factors which have contributed to the high standard of Western Canada's dairy production have been the upsurging efforts made to improve dairy herds and the constant keeping in sight of a high ideal in this regard. This has resulted in the development of exceptional herds of such excellence that the history of dairy history is so young and the time of evolution brief, western dairy cattle are already in demand in many countries. Recently a new world's record in butter production was made at the farm of the Dominion Government at Agassiz, British Columbia, where a cow was responsible for a yield of 1,673 pounds of butter in 365 days. There are large herds on the prairies whose average production is over nine thousand pounds of milk in a year. On the Alberta farm of the Canadian Pacific Railway a record of 24,550 pounds of milk was recently made and the entire herd there is averaging close to 36 pounds per day during the winter months.

When an exportable surplus was arrived at, the high quality of the product naturally facilitated the development of markets, and today the provinces which were importing butter, not only for their urban but their rural populations, are exporting the same product in large quantities. Saskatchewan butter is only 30 per cent marketed in the province, the remainder going to Vancouver and eastern markets. In 1922 the experiment of shipping direct to Great Britain was made, and so successful were the results of the first shipment that before the end of the year some thirty cars had been despatched and a permanent trade in this commodity is in sight for the province. Manitoba, which in 1914, imported 20 carloads of butter, now exports about 100 carloads per year, and has successfully established its product on the British market. The butter product of Alberta is going in considerable quantity to the Pacific coast of British Columbia, the Yukon and as far east as Montreal.

Predicts Prosperity For Canada

American Statistician Believes Canada Can Expect Big Trade Revival

In a recent review of conditions in Canada, published in the United States press, Roger W. Babson, the well-known statistician states that while conditions in the United States may be better on the whole at present than in Canada, he predicts that "unless we take care business will be better in Canada in 1924 than it will be here (United States). Continuing he writes, "The farming condition is better. Its farmers did well last year and the fruit growing sections had very profitable yields. A more hopeful feeling is developing, however, in the prairie and other agricultural regions. Better prices for farm products are helping the Canadians as well as the farmers in the States. As the Canadian farmer was slower in feeling the good effect of this increase in prices of farm products, so he will enjoy it longer."

Whale Fishing Off B.C. Coast

It is understood that whale fishing at Queen Charlotte Islands will be carried on full strength this summer. Last year some of the stations were closed, due to a lack of demand for whale products. A good market is expected for this year's catch.

Canada's Best Customer

United Kingdom Purchased Goods to Value of $379,540,481

The United Kingdom was Canada's best customer last year, buying goods to the value of $379,540,481. The United States was next on the list with a total account of $349,232,390. Australia comes third on the list having bought Canadian products to the value of $17,411,398, then Japan, with an account of $15,790,500, France $12,863,322, Italy $12,195,498, Belgium $12,014,190, Netherlands $10,891,889, followed by British West Indies, Newfoundland, New Zealand, Germany, China, Greece, Norway and Sweden, Cuba and Mexico.

When the export of the various countries of the world are considered on a per capita basis, it is found that the Dominion of New Zealand comes first with an export of $154.54 per capita; Canada comes second with $100.63. The United Kingdom has an export per capita of $63.26 and the United States has an export per capita of $33.95.

Vancouver Grain Shipments

Volume of Grain Handling Increases With Better Elevator Accommodation

Grain shipments from Vancouver this season will amount to at least 15,000,000 bushels, as against a total of 7,500,000 bushels in the last season, and 500,000 bushels in the season before that. By the beginning of the next crop year the elevator accommodation will have increased to 1,250,000 bushels, as against 1,250,000 at the present time. It is anticipated that the volume of grain handled during the crop year commencing September 1st, 1923, will reach about 40,000,000 bushels.

Canadian Wheat Board

The period of operation of the Canadian Wheat Board Act of 1922, has been extended by Order-in-Council until the fifteenth of July, 1924. The act expires on August 15 this year. The act provides for the appointment of a wheat board on the request of two or more provinces.

It is far better to take people as they are than to waste valuable time in trying to make them as they should be.

Plans Being Developed For Utilization Of Flax Straw Grown By Prairie Farmers

Suicide in the U.S.

Statistics Gathered by the Save-a-Life League

The President of the Save-a-Life League gives us the following pleasant statistics:

Twelve thousand persons committed suicide in the United States during 1922, of whom one-third were women. The grand total included 35 college students, 50 college professors and school teachers, 19 members of religious professions, 53 judges and lawyers, 34 physicians, 100 heads of large business concerns, and a number of bank presidents. The oldest suicide was aged 100, and the youngest aged five.

The motive in some cases appear to have been whimsical or silly. A man killed himself because he had to give up playing golf; a young woman "just to get a new thrill."

Child suicide, in particular, has alarmingly increased. In 1919, 477 children committed suicide, in 1922 the number was upward of 900.

Most pathetic of all is the statement that more than 1,000 ex-soldiers have committed suicide since the war.—The Independent.

Placer Mining at Cariboo

Placer mining with modern machinery promises to revive much activity in old Cariboo diggings, according to advices received here. Both deep and bench mining will be carried on by British and American syndicates, after prospecting claims which they have secured. Individual prospectors will also work over the fields in search of uncovered deposits.

Indian Schools For B.C.

Two new Indian schools are to be constructed in the Okanagan. One is to be erected on the Penticton reserve at an approximate cost of between $4,000 and $5,000, and the other school building, including residential facilities for the school teacher, is to be built on the Okanagan reserve, near Vernon, at a similar cost.

FISHING IN CANADA

Fishing in the Rockies

For those who like fish and fishing, there is no country like our own. By reason of the accessibility of its fishing grounds from the railways, Canada is becoming the Mecca of the real anglers of this and the European Continent; and although they come in increasing numbers and with each year carry off more spoils, they do not seriously affect the numbers of their prey; this partly because of the protective policy of licensing adopted in various provinces, and because most of the provincial governments have established fish hatcheries from which lakes and streams are replenished as the stock becomes depleted.

From Montreal the Canadian Pacific Railway runs through a veritable fisherman's paradise in the Laurentians, and in a couple of hours after leaving that city one can arrive at a fruitful stand; but if a fishing trip without the trimmings is desired, the waters of Northern Ontario, the Nipigon district, and parts of New Brunswick, are equalled on this continent only by those of British Columbia. Prize have put Timagami on the map. Vancouver Island too has produced some fine bass and trout, and the salmon struck in that part of the Dominion are famous all over the world for their size and fighting qualities. Then there's the Gaspe coast and Baie des Chaleurs in Quebec.

Cains River and the Little Trocadero of New Brunswick are also famous for their sporting fish. Tuna makes good fishing almost anywhere off the coast of Nova Scotia but very few are taken as special tackle is required for this monster.

Now is the time to oil the rod and look up the tackle because trout bite not only on the first of May—if the ice is out. Stephen Leacock says that he has come to the conclusion

The Catch of the Nipigon Season.

That black bass bite only at midnight. He has never fished until midnight but he has come to this conclusion because he was never very successful before that hour, but, as he also says, the bass is cunning, and one cunning bass is worth twenty of a more tame variety of the completely aquatic, water breathing, craniate vertebrates.

For many years the problem of how to utilize the enormous wastage of straw from the western linseed flax oil crop has been the subject of investigation and study. Every year, for many years past, over a million tons of this straw, after the seed has been recovered by threshing, have been wasted by burning, so as to leave the land clean for future agricultural operations.

Realizing the potential value of this enormous tonnage of waste material, the Canadian Pacific Railway made a close study and careful investigation of its utilization; as it presented itself, under conditions which existed, the problem was a difficult one.

The straw was known to have a certain value for its fibre, being similar in this respect, though of inferior grade, to the straw cultivated for the production of fibre flax. But after leaving the threshing machine the fibre value of this linseed flax straw was destroyed, even for production of commercial tow, owing to the manner in which the straw is broken up in the threshing operation. In consequence of this difficulty, early investigations were along the lines of utilizing the waste straw as a pulping material for the manufacture of paper. The investigations conducted in this connection were entirely successful, and the resulting product was an exceptionally high grade of paper suitable for high-class of writing paper and similar purposes. This research was carried out on a commercial scale, but the cost of production of the paper was too high for practical operation.

Subsequent investigations have been inaugurated by the Honorary Council for Scientific and Industrial Research in efforts to produce a pulp from which a cheap grade of newspaper could be manufactured. The results have not so far been disclosed.

Today the utilization of these vast quantities of waste straw is nearer to accomplishment than ever before. Modern Canadian inventors and perfected machinery have made possible the recovery of the flaxseed without destruction of the straw through a new form of threshing machine. This at once removed the old obstacle to the utilization of the fibre content of the straw and sets free and available an enormous new supply of raw material for the manufacture of the lower grades of linen products, which is certain to mean an important industrial development in Western Canada in the not distant future.

Meantime a successful effort has been made in Manitoba near Winnipeg in the use of this waste flax straw by the production of an insulating material, which has been proved to be an efficient non-conductor of heat and cold, and is being used in western construction work as linings between the walls and under the roofs, to keep out the cold, and appears to have demonstrated effectively its success in these relations. It has been used in public buildings as well as industrial plants—ice cold storage and others—and is becoming general in its use in private dwellings.

While this is only a beginning, it has created a new and more satisfactory for the future marketing of flax straw, and now its use for tow purposes for upholstery has developed a desire on the part of industries south of the International Boundary to purchase the straw and a large tonnage contract was entered into late in the past year; a tow mill is to be erected in Manitoba to take care of this new market.

This is an interesting western commercial development, befitting of mention as an example of the desire to utilize waste products. The west has already realized that everything must be used commercially to bring about satisfactory financial returns, and continuous investigations into markets and means of production that are proceeding along various lines will lead ultimately to a greater value being obtained from western raw materials than perhaps has hitherto been the case.

The keynote to the whole situation, however, is a denser population, the creation of new local markets, all of which once more points to Canada's pressing need for a more constructive and aggressive immigration policy.

"Have you heard from Washington," he asked.

"I got a telegram this morning, saying that the matter is under advisement."

"Under advisement?" Moran roared, in disgust. "That means they'll get the cavalry here in time to fire a volley over our graves—asides to ashes and dust to dust. What are you going to do about it?"

Rehli bled a huge mouthful of fragrant smoke into the air.

"Frankly, Race, I don't think you're in a proper mood to talk."

"You're right," something in Moran's voice suggested the explosion of a fire-arm, and the Senator looked at him curiously. "You thought talking. We've both of us talked too damn much, and that's a fact."

"I'll be obliged to you," the Senator remarked, "if you'll remember that you draw a salary from me and that you owe me a certain amount of respect."

Moran laughed raucously.

"Respect? I don't owe you a damn thing, Senator, and what you owe me you won't be able to pay if you sit here mullin' round waiting for something to turn up. You'll be ruined, that's what you'll be—ruined!" He brought his big hand down on the table with a thump.

"By your own carelessness. Now, look here, Race, I've made allowances for you, because—"

"You don't need to! Soft soap me, Senator, save that for your office seekers." The agent was fast working himself into another passion. "I've not ruined you, and you know it. A fact's a fact, isn't it? Instead of ruining you, I'm trying to save you."

If you go broke, you'll do it yourself! With your pen and sentiment. But if I am to pull your chestnuts out of the fire for you, you've got to give me a free hand. I've got to fight fire with fire.

Rehli wiped his glasses nervously, for despite his assumption of calm, his whole future swung upon the outcome of his Crawling Water valley. If he appeared calm, it was not because he felt so, but because the schooling of a lifetime had taught him that the man who keeps cool usually wins.

"There's nothing to do but go on as we are headed now," he declared. "Wade's discovery of our purpose is most unfortunate—his voice shook a trifle—but it can't be helped. In the legal sense, he has added to the list of his crimes, and we have more against him than we ever had. He now has three charges, to face—murder, assault and robbery. It rests with us whether he shall be punished by the courts for any of the three."

The Senator spoke emphatically in the effort to convince himself that his statements were practically true, but he avoided Moran's eyes as he did so. His show of optimism had little substance behind it, because now that his motives were likely to be hauled to the public, he was too good a lawyer not to realize how little staiding he would be doing in that section at least; of course, Wade would realize this equally well and feel fortified in his own position. Rehli's chief hope had been that the support of the cavalry from Port Mackenzie would enable him to control the situation; but here, too, he was threatened by the unexpected hesitation of the authorities at Washington.

Moran, however, was frankly contemptuous of the prospect of help from that source. He had never believed greatly in it, although at the time it was first mentioned his enthusiasm for any plan of action had inspired him with some measure of the Senator's confidence. Now that he was alone, he was left with no faith in aid from such a quarter.

"What if your cavalry doesn't come?" he demanded.

"Then we must rely upon the Sheriff here to maintain the law that he is sworn to support."

"Bah! He's weakening now. He's not forgetting that he's to spend the rest of his days in this town, after we've gone back East, or perhaps he'll. Who's to look after him, then, if he gets himself in bad with the folks here?"

"If he's already in bad with the folks here, the only way to save you, or that old turkey buzzard of a sheriff either, is for this man Wade and kidnap him. Rehli started violently.

"Kidnap him, and take him into the mountains and keep him there with a gun at his head, until he signs a quit-claim. I've located the very spot to hide him in—Coyote Springs. It's practically inaccessible, a natural hiding-place."

Rehli turned a shade or two paler as he nervously brushed some cigar ashes from his vest and sleeve. He had already gone further along the road of crime than he felt to be safe, but the way back seemed even more dangerous than the road ahead. The question was no longer one of ethics, but purely of expediency.

"We haven't time to wait on cavalry and courts," Moran went on. "I'm willing to take the risk. If you are, if we don't take it, you know what the result will be. We may make our get-away to the East, or we may stop for good-and-evil ground. You have little choice either way. If you get out of this country, you'll be down and out. Your name'll be by word and you'll be far broke, a joke and an object of contempt the nation over. And it's not only yourself you've got to think of; you've got to consider your wife and daughter, and how they'll stand poverty and disgrace. Against all that you've got a chance, a fighting chance. Are you game enough to take it?"

All that Moran said was true enough, for Rehli knew that if he failed to secure control of Crawling Water Valley, his back would be broken, both politically and financially. He would not only be stripped of his wealth, but of his credit and the power which stood him in lieu of private honor. He would be disgraced beyond redemption in the eyes of his associates, and in the bosom of his family he would find no solace for public shame. Failure meant the loss forever of his daughter's respect, which might yet be saved to him through glimmers of success and the reflection of that tolerance which the world is always ready to extend toward the successful.

"You are right," he admitted, "in saying that I have my wife and daughter to consider, and that reminds me. I haven't told you that Helen overheard our conversation about Wade in my room, the other night. He rapidly explained her indignation and threat of exposure. 'I don't mean to say that your suggestion hasn't something to recommend it,' he summed up, 'but if Wade were to disappear, and she felt that he had been injured, I probably could not restrain her.'"

The agent leaned across the desk, leaning.

"Tell her the truth, that I found Wade here in this room with Dorothy Purnell, at night; that they came here for an assignation, because it was the one place in Crawling Water—"

Rehli got to his feet, you've got a clamorous of disgust.

Quickly Relieves Constipation

If your liver and bowels don't work properly, take CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS today and your trouble will be relieved. For indigestion, lack of appetite, headache and bloated skin try them. Purely vegetable. Small Pill—Small Dose—Small Price.

"Well, say, then, that they came here to rifle the place, but that when I caught them they were spooning. Say anything you like, but make her believe that it was a lovers' meeting. See if she'll care then to save him."

The Senator dropped heavily back into his chair without voicing the protest that had been on his tongue's end. He was quick to see that, contemptible though the suggestion was, it yet offered him a means whereby to save himself his daughter's respect and affection. The whole danger in that regard lay in her devotion to Wade, which was responsible for her interest in him, if she could be brought to feel that Wade was unworthy, that he had indeed wronged her, her own pride could be trusted to do the rest.

"If I thought that Wade were the man to make her happy," Rehli puffed loudly, in restraint of his excitement.

"Happy? Him?" Moran's eyes gleamed.

"Or if there was a shred of truth—put to make up such a story out of whole cloth."

"What's the matter with you, Senator? Why, I thought you were a man of me!" Moran roared, in the heat of battle.

"That agent leaned forward again until his hot, whiskey-laden breath fanned the other man's face."

"I'm a father, Race, before I'm anything else in God's world."

"But it's true, Senator. True as I'm speaking. Ask any one in Crawling Water. Everybody knows that Wade and this Purnell girl are mad in love with each other."

"Is that true, Race?"

Rehli looked searchingly into the inflamed sides which marked the location of the agent's eyes.

"As God is my witness. It's the truth now, whatever he may have thought of Helen before. He's been making a fool of her, Senator. I've tried to make her see it, but she won't. You'll not only be protecting yourself, but you'll do her a service."

He paused as Rehli consulted his watch.

"Helen will be over here in a few minutes. I promised to take a walk with her this morning."

"I'll do it, Race," Rehli spoke solemnly. "We might as well try for one thing as another." Grimacing, he shook the hand which the other offered him. "When will you start?"

"Now," Moran answered promptly. "I'll take three or four men with me, and we'll hang around Wade's ranch until we get him. He'll probably be nosing around the range trying to locate the gold, and we shouldn't have much trouble. When you've got him safe—"

"His teeth ground audibly, yet each other as he paused abruptly, and the sound seemed to cause the Senator uneasiness.

"By the way, since I've turned near-sighted, you might as well tell me who shot Jensen," Rehli spoke with a curious effort. "If Wade gets you, instead of you getting Wade it may be necessary for me to know all the facts."

Moran answered from the window, whether he had stopped to get his hat, which lay on the broad sill.

"It was Tug Bailey, Senator. Here comes Helen now. You needn't tell her that I was tied up all night." He laid Wade's quilt on the desk. "He left that behind him."

Rehli gazed at the desk.

"Yes, I will tell her," he declared solemnly, "and about the Jensen affair. If I've got to be a rascal, you'll be the goat. Give Bailey some money and get him out of town before he tanks up and tells all he knows."

Helen came in, looking very sweet and fresh in a linen suit, and was at first inclined to be sympathetic when she heard of Moran's plight, without knowing the source of it. But she did know, the odor of liquor on his breath repelled her. He finally departed, not at the bidding of her cool nod, but urged by his lust of revenge, which, even more than the whiskey, had fired his blood.

"Intoxicated, isn't he? How utterly disgusting!"

Her father looked at her admiringly, keenly regretting that he must dispel her love dream. But he took some comfort from the fact that Wade was apparently in love with another woman. "The thought of this had been enough to make him seize upon the chance of keeping all her affection for himself."

"He's had a drink or two," he admitted, "but he needed them. He had a hard night. Poor fellow, he was exposed to injury and the elements handled him very roughly."

Helen looked up in amazement.

"Did Gordon do that?" she asked.

"The Senator hesitated, and while she waited for his answer she was struck by a sense of humor in what had happened. She laughed softly. "Good for him!"

"We think that he came here to—to see what he could find, partly," Rehli explained. "That probably was not his only reason. He wasn't alone."

"Oh!" Her tone expressed disappointment that his remark had not been a single-handed one. "Did they tie him with these?" she asked, picking up one of the crumpled strips of linen, which lay on the floor. Suddenly her face showed surprise. "Why—this is part of a woman's skirt!"

Her father glanced at the strip of linen over his glasses.

Severe Kidney Trouble

Mrs. F. Rinehart, Campbellville, Ont., writes:

"I had trouble with my kidneys and very frequent urination. This was followed by pains which at times were very severe. The doctor said I had inflammation of the bladder and that an operation might be necessary. To this I refused, and began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. From the first few doses I felt the benefit. The pains left, urination was corrected, and I have had no recurrence of these ailments."

Ottawa Urged To Find Method For Controlling Lake Freight Rates

Ottawa.—The Senate heard session talk regarding Western Canada when Hon. John G. Turfitt, of Assiniboia, Sask., urged that the Government find some method of controlling lake freight rates and insurance, as the Canadian people "were being robbed, both on the lakes and on the Atlantic." If the west came to the conclusion that there was no possibility of redress, there would be a strong recession movement in that part of the country, Senator Turfitt said.

Senator W. H. Bennett, of Simcoe, Ont., voiced strong opposition to the sale of the vessels of the Government Merchant Marine on the Great Lakes, advocating that these vessels be kept in the grain trade to assist in lowering the grain rates for the western farmers. He asked the Government to ascertain who had advised Sir Henry Thornton to sell these ships, and "If his advisers had stock in lake shipping companies." Canadian vessel owners were trying to drive trade from the Canadian National Railways, he said. They preferred to ship through American ports, where the Canadian grain could be mixed.

It was most unfortunate that the railways making up the present Government system had been taken over, said Senator N. A. Belcourt, of Ottawa. It was the greatest mistake since Confederation, and the only remedy was to hand the railways over to somebody to operate.

U.S. Liquor Ruling

American Government Takes Stand Respecting Three-Mile Limit

Washington.—The United States Government, taking a position with regard to the transportation of liquor into territorial waters of the United States, decreed that the rigorous interpretation of the prohibition law given by the Supreme Court shall become effective June 10.

Secretary of State Hughes was requested by the treasury to communicate notice of the decision to all foreign governments. The treasury, which has jurisdiction over all prohibition enforcement, suggested that the state department advise foreign governments that all ships entering the three-mile limit will be subject to the new application of the law without exception, and that no further pronouncement may be expected from this Government regarding the effective date.

Would Probe Sugar Prices

Winnipeg.—Claiming that there is no justification for the advance in sugar prices, the Women's Labor League of Winnipeg will request the Federal Government to institute an investigation. "The league is urging a boycott by Winnipeg housewives against the use of sugar, and intends to make a concerted effort with the housewives of the United States and Canada to force a reduction in the price of the commodity."

No Political Interference

Sir Henry Thornton Says There Has Been No Attempt to Influence Him

Hamilton.—At one time Sir Henry Thornton had an ambition to be a police chief, he stated here, but his ambition to look after crime led him to the next best thing—to look after the Canadian National Railways.

No politician had attempted to influence him in any way in any important decision, he said. "They had to make a success of public ownership whether they liked it or not, for it was here to stay."

The C.P.R. had shown a spirit of co-operation, and the two big roads would work hand in hand for the welfare and development of Canada, he said.

Surprised How Quickly He Got Relief

FRANK PLOUDE NOW PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Ontario man who Suffered for Six Years found Relief and gives the Credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

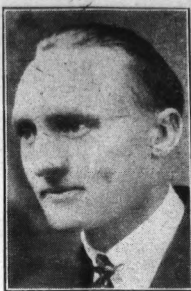

Dean, Lake, Ont.—(Special).—Mr. Frank Ploude, a well-known resident here, is always ready to recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all who suffer from kidney trouble.

"I have suffered with my kidneys for the last six years," Mr. Ploude states. "The pains at times were so intense, I was unable to work. I saw your advertisement in the newspaper a year ago, and decided to give your medicine a trial. All my pains have now gone and backaches are a thing of the past. If any poor sufferers are troubled with kidney disease I would implore them to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. They would be surprised how quickly they would get relief."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have become a family remedy all over the Province of Ontario, because people have tried them and found them good.

They are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They help Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diabetes, Lame Back, Heart Disease and Urinary Troubles, because all of these are either Kidney Diseases, or are caused by the Kidneys failing to do their work."

ONLY TWO CANADIAN CATTLE DISEASED

MORE FREE FROM TUBERCULOSIS THAN IRISH OR ENGLISH

London.—With reference to the statement made by Dr. Dearden, Medical Health Officer and Port Sanitary Authority for Manchester, that Canadian store cattle which arrived at the port of Manchester, were not altogether free from pulmonary tuberculosis, it is reported from Manchester that of 1,200 Canadian store cattle which arrived there were only two seized and portions of their carcasses destroyed.

No animals passed by the Board of Agriculture's Inspector at the Manchester wharf. It is further reported, showed signs of any of the three notable diseases among cattle, and Dr. Dearden states that from his observations the Canadian cattle were more free from tuberculosis than the Irish or English cattle.

BRITISH TRADE IMPROVING

BUSINESS BETTER DESPITE MANY DISPUTES IN INDUSTRIAL CIRCLES

London.—Despite the disputes brewing in the industrial, shipping and railway world, British trade generally keeps improving, says the monthly summary of business conditions in the United Kingdom issued by the American Chamber of Commerce in London.

Fifteen vessels aggregating 51,731 tons, were launched by Clyde builders during the month, says the survey, while one large Belfast firm has received an order for the construction of three luges for a single company. The manufacturers of motor-cycles are taking record orders.

The number of unemployed has been reduced to 1,239,309, the lowest figure in two years.

Present Air Force Inadequate

Not Strong Enough For Great Britain's Home Defence

London.—Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for Air, speaking at the Constitutional Club, declared that, in view of Great Britain's obligations abroad, her air forces were insufficiently strong for home defence. He appealed on behalf of the Government for help in the formation of a national air policy.

Sir Samuel expressed the view that the Imperial air communications should have a prominent place in the agenda of the Imperial Conference in the autumn and he wanted to see the Empire take the lead in air powers.

The length laid by the steamer will be buoyed off Banfield on completion of the laying, to be linked up with the longer strip by the Colonia on her arrival.

HEART PALPITATED And Was Short Of Breath

Through one cause or another a large majority of people are troubled, more or less, with some form of heart trouble.

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement over work or worry starts it to palpitate and throb, skip beats, beat fast for a time and then to slow as to seem almost to stop, then it causes great anxiety and alarm.

Protest Against Turk Grant

London.—The British High Commissioner in Constantinople, has been instructed to register an emphatic protest against the grant by the Turks of rights within the kingdom of Irak (Mesopotamia) and to declare that Great Britain cannot recognize the validity of any such grant.

This was announced in the House of Commons in a statement on the Chester concessions by Lieutenant-Colonel Albert Buckley, speaking on the Foreign Office.

We are a good deal happier because of a lot of things we don't know.

Lausanne.—France has officially warned Turkey anew that she does not like the Turkish concentration of troops on the Syrian frontier, and has added that if Turkish military pressure on the Syrian border is not removed, it may be difficult for France to go on with the Lausanne peace negotiations.

The French charge delivered the warning to Constantinople and Gen. Pelle, the French High Commissioner, repeated it to Ismet Pasha, who said he would refer the point to his home Government.

What Gen. Pelle practically told Ismet was that France refused to be bluffed. The latest and more official notification to Turkey goes a step further, and, according to the French spokesman, plainly indicates to Ankara that failure to liquidate the questions satisfactorily to France may render continuation of the Lausanne pourparlers problematical so far as France is concerned.

The Turkish representatives issued a statement maintaining they had a perfect right to mobilize troops in Cilicia.

"The Turkish statement says: 'After all, we are still at war with the allies and Greece, and have a perfect right to maintain troops where we think fit.'"

Turkey has about 20,000 troops in Cilicia, the French about 15,000 troops, chiefly colonial.

The French representative further explained that no time limit was attached to the notification to Turkey, and there was no reason why the Lausanne negotiations could not continue at least for the present.

In conference circles the general impression prevailed that the Franco-Turkish controversy would be adjusted and would not be the cause of a second collapse of the Near East conference.

The second phase of the conference, which Lausanne is now witnessing, is mainly a financial and economic battle between Turkey and Great Britain on territorial questions, like Mosul.

France's protest against the troops in Cilicia is approved by the British delegation.

Mount Robson National Park holds for the tourist and explorer new trails through new wonderful lands in a great unspoiled Alpine kingdom, where nature and beauty vie with each other. It is a country abounding in big things; majestic peaks, deep canyons and water falls. In fact, it is doubtful if any where in an equal area such mountain scenery and wonder features can be found. Camps are located in Mount Robson Park for accommodation of tourists, where saddle horses and pack horses are available. An observation platform has been constructed by the Canadian National Railways, at Mount Robson station, where all trains stop for a few minutes to afford travelers the opportunity of viewing this vast and amazing territory. Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, is plainly seen from the train. The "Continental Limited" on route to the Pacific Coast traverses this new playground, and for many miles follows the "North Thompson and Fraser Rivers, remarkable in beauty and interesting in history. Mountain Observation Cars composed largely of glass, are attached to the "Continental Limited." This new innovation on the Mountain Division of Canadian National Railways allows unobstructed view of the scenery on both sides of the track and affords protection from sun or rain.

Chiravari a la Missouri.

A large gathering of young folks assembled at the home of Mr and Mrs W T Propp last Saturday evening. The tiffin parade lined up in sets of twos and fours, and proceeded to the home of Mr and Mrs R C Propp; this being a surprise charivari for the Newlyweds, Mr and Mrs A Propp.

The parade was met by some of the neighbors dogs who welcomed them and joined in also with all the noise they could furnish, when suddenly for some reason or other the stars seemed to be falling, and so the band started up playing one of its favorites and the dogs quit the band and beat it for the tall trees.

After three or four tunes played by the Holborn Disc Band, it was learned that Mrs A Propp was getting a headache, caused by the vibration of the bass disc, so the bandmaster gave orders to cease playing and everybody was welcomed into the lounge, and in return Mr and Mrs A Propp were given the glad hand by all.

Seats were quickly taken up and soon were at a premium. Soft drinks, Missouri chicken sandwiches, cakes, pies and hot coffee were served by the ladies; then came the cigars.

The evening was going along nicely, up to the time that Rattlesnake Pete spilled some hot coffee down Sagebrush Ed's boot, which caused some right so art dancing.

George the Boxer played a tune on the mouth organ entitled, "Married Life is like Seasons," because when you are joined together your always cutting up and making scraps out of anything that comes between them. The way some of the old timers jigged to this music was not slow. Bill, the King of the Hockey Players could not keep his feet still and gave some very interesting steps in jigs and Indian dances.

Smokes were passed around and several of the latest songs of the day were sung by the boys. The gathering broke up at 2 a. m. by everybody wishing Newlyweds a happy and prosperous life and by singing, "God Save the King."

Motor Transport Through West Coast Archipelago

1. Boat like a flat thrusting up from the water. 2. The "Motor Ferry" at the launching.

The magnificent chain of fine motor roads which wind their way from Seattle and the Canada Pacific to Vancouver and points on the southern British Columbia coast, the use through the western states of America touching as they do the finest of the Canadian and American National Parks need no introduction to the world of motorists. Every mile of roadway especially through the Canadian Parks where it has, in many places been cut out of solid rock and at stupendous cost, has been built with a view to many travelling and scenic grandeur, and from early spring until late in the fall a continuous stream of automobiles bearing passengers and tourists pour along the highway. Nowhere else can the motorist obtain such a long run through such ever changing scenes of natural beauty.

During the past few years it has become quite the thing to motor through vacation time and those who choose this way of holidaying are numerous in their ranks of "hunting grounds." British Columbia and the Rockies are not the things to be "done" because having travelled through them once means never to have willingly done with the country. No less attractive on account of its good roads, scenic properties and tourist accommodation is Vancouver Island. The city of Victoria at the southern extremity of the island is the hub from which the "round the island" and shorter roads radiate and the town itself, with its brown decked hills, its thousand gardens its avenues of barethorn, acacia, lybrium and other fragrant trees is the goal of all who having covered the scenic routes of the mainland would still enjoy the pleasures of the road without travelling the same road again and those who are attracted to the island by its particular type of beauty which is after the English style with "just enough of the tropics thrown in."

The passage to the island is usually made by ferry from Vancouver, or Billingsham in the State of Washington to Victoria or one of the west coast ports nearby. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has this year put into service a new automobile ferry, the "Motor Princess," a motor driven vessel which operates between Billingsham and Victoria and which, with a capacity for fifty automobiles and well appointed accommodation for 250 passengers, plies twice daily.

The route traversed by the ferry is marked by islands, some of which are miles in extent, others like little islands thrusting up from the sea, making the way a succession of pictures to which the most famous of salons, hangings cannot compare. The lovely Mount Baker is also seen from the ferry to advantage standing as it does in a mantle of dazzling snow amid the foothills of the mainland.

While young Arthur Lutz, son of John Lutz, was driving home from school on Monday afternoon with a party of young friends, he met a motor dray opposite the Demonstration Farm, which, on passing is alleged to have crowded him off the road. The democrat turned over, smashing the seats and breaking the spokes of a wheel, leaving the occupants to walk home.

Danger from Fires.

The danger of letting fires run was exemplified again last week, when a fire which apparently came on to the road allowance from an adjoining farm burnt over 100 feet of road grade about a mile south of the J W Fuhr farm, near Spruce Grove. A farmer who lives at Garden Valley was driving home Thursday night and attempted to drive thru the blinding smoke which hung over the road, with the result that his team dropped thru the burnt grade and was with difficulty rescued.

A nearby house recently built for Mr Wm Fuhr, was saved from the flames only after a strenuous effort: a pile of lumber with which to erect a stable fell a prey to the flames.

This fire occurred in Councillor Schuetz's division of Spruce Grove M.D.
